

Glendora Kiwaniannes Family Picnic

Want to beat the summer heat and still have a picnic? It's easy! Hold your summer picnic indoors in an air conditioned environment...Yes you heard me correct...on Tuesday, August 19, 2008 The Glendora Kiwaniannes did just that...held their first Family Picnic at the Bidwell Forum. It was cool and comfortable, and fun, fun, fun.

There was a buffet of fried chicken, several salads, ice cream sundaes, and nice cold drinks. Members brought their children and grandchildren to enjoy the festivities. And did they ever enjoy themselves. We had face painting, and "throw the beanbag thru the hole game"... Of course, as you can see in the photo, the kids chose to just put their faces thru the holes (although some DID throw the beanbags at the little faces peeking thru the holes....don't worry, we stopped them before anyone was permanently damaged!!!)

We had line dancing and again as you can see by the photos, everyone joined in, including one special little lady who happens to be Kandy Nunn's granddaughter. You are never too young to learn to line dance. We even had adult games....no THAT kind of adult game (shame on you!)...We had names placed on our backs and we had to guess who we were by asking questions....needless to say, I never guessed who I was, that is until Debbie switched and gave me my hero....Josh Groban.... So you see, it was a terrific night, and all had a good time. Jo Cox

Face Painting...

Grab your partners!!

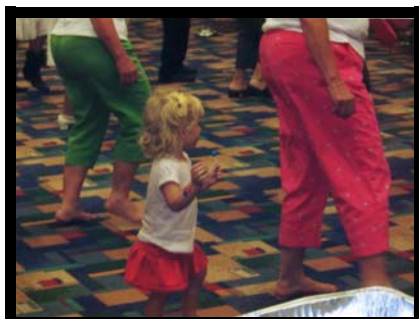

Hanging out...

Line Dancing...

and having a good ole time!

You're never too young to begin your career in line dancing.

Come and Get It!
Good ole fashioned fried chicken
and all the trimmings!

Some Grammas & Grampas are sooo much fun!!